She specializes in developing middle management and newly promoted leaders, with a strong focus on self-awareness, emotional intelligence, leadership effectiveness, and team performance. Her work consistently centres on empowering individuals to reach their full potential while driving sustainable behavioural and cultural change within organizations.

She has designed and delivered leadership development programs, emotional intelligence initiatives, and coaching engagements across healthcare, education, and government-related institutions. Her experience includes facilitating leadership and management soft-skills programs, leading large-scale awareness sessions on coaching and self-development, supporting organizational learning functions, and contributing to national-level initiatives such as leadership summits and capability-building programs. She brings hands-on experience in both one-on-one and group coaching, as well as in the design and execution of structured training interventions.

In addition to her consulting and coaching practice, Nahi actively works in leadership assessment and development, supporting leaders through evidence-based tools and frameworks. She is certified in EQ-i 2.0 and EQ 360, ORSC, The Birkman Method, and MBTI I & II, and applies a culturally grounded, systems-oriented approach to leadership growth.
